BEATS WIFE UNMERCIFULLY.

Swears Out Peace Warrant Against Him—Now in Jail.

This morning Mrs. Melissae J. Sanders filed a suit against her husband, Peter Sanders, charging him with some very hard things. She alleges that ahead her husband have been living together since about 1886.
About a month ago he began to curse abuse and mistreat her; says that he kicked her, struck her with his fist, whipped her with a leather strap, violently threw her down upon the ground and beat her till she bore the stripes of the lashes on her body; that he drew a pistol and swore that he would kill her, and while he stood over her he swore he would drive a nail through her heart. Mrs. Sanders says further that he beats and abuses the children.

For this kind of treatment toward her Mrs. Sanders asks the court to grant her a divorce, give her possession of the children and asks for a division of the property.

Believing that her life was in danger Mrs. Sanders swore out a peace warrant and Sanders was arrested and is now in jail.

in their new big company which is said to be the most capable ever carried by these popular artists.
Among the plays in the repertoire this season are "Home, Sweet Home," sharpers of all kinds, and a complete

It requires five trains of double-length railroad cars to transport Ring-
